Come and enjoy a privileged moment of “plaisir des sens”

a drink, a delicious bite of worldly flavour,

and a great conversation around the work of isabelle Proust

The word lyrical comes to mind when gazing at isabelle's images...almost melodic - if that is possible in strictly visual representations. Lyric: expressing direct, personal emotion especially in a manner suggestive of song*. That is the sense perceived from isabelle's work.

Although predominantly abstract, Isabelle's flowing traces frequently seem to dance, play and transform into colorful flowers that brighten the composition like a morning sun.

There are some pieces that imbue a sense of somberness or melancholy, perhaps reflecting the artist's changing moods, even when the majority of the work appears as if it was created in paradise.

Walking away from isabelle's work leaves one feel refreshed, lighter and happier...as if having just listened to one of your favorite songs.
